Annual research recognition function

The annual research recognition function for the Faculty of Education was hosted at Roots in Potchefstroom on 17 October 2019. All academics involved in research and supervision were invited to celebrate this special event as a token of appreciation for the previous year's work.

A slide show and booklet were presented to the academics who published research outputs during the 2018 academic year, as well as to supervisors and promoters who had MEd and PhD students graduating during the HEMIS year in September 2018 and May 2019.

This glamorous evening was concluded with entertainment by the NWU's own Black Note Ensemble, a group of five students singing the sophisticated style of afro pop combined with an infusion of R&B.

Prof Washington Dudu (deputy dean for Research and Innovation) and the organisers of the event (Ms Monica Moruri and Mr Christi Bester) wish to express their gratitude to everyone who had a hand in the success of this glamorous evening. A big thank you to all those who attended and made this day possible.

Al die akademici wat by navorsing en studieleiding betrokke is, is genooi om hierdie spesiale geleentheid by te woon as blyk van waardering vir die vorige jaar se werk.

'n Skyfievertoning is gehou en 'n boekie oorhandig aan die akademici wat navorsingsuitsette in die 2018-akademiese jaar gepubliseer het, asook aan die studieleiers en promotors wat MEd- en PhD-studente gehad het wat tydens die HEMIS-jaar in 2018 en Mei 2019 gradueer het.

Hierdie glansryke aand is afgesluit met vermaak deur die NWU se eie Black Note Ensemble, wat 'n groep van vyf studente is wat die gesofistikeerde styl van afro pop, gekombineer met 'n mengsel van R&B, sing.
